It's another month and another batch of Web sites. Send us info on yours or someone else's at sccnews@primedia.com. Ah heck, send us the porn sites, too.

If we had a name as cool as Demetrius Jones, we wouldn't be writing to us. But hey, he did, and thinks we should check out this site devoted to the Honda Civic that's currently in production.

"It is one of the top auto enthusiast sites and it is devoted to the seventh-generation Civic and other Hondas," writes Jones. "There are more than 5,000 members of the site, and it offers news updates and plenty of opinions in the forums. There are even price comparisons and tools to help anyone who wants to tune their 2001-plus Honda Civic. I think you should visit the site and cover it in one of your upcoming issues."

Well, Demetrius, we visited the site and it seems to be exactly what you said it to be. Particularly impressive is how up-to-date the news section is (and comprehensive too, ranging well beyond Honda). The photo galleries are also topnotch with not just member rides but such "Off Topic" subjects as a link to a totally smunched Lamborghini Diablo at Road Atlanta. And the forums are steaming.

This seems to be a top-notch site well worth the visit, even if you don't have a Civic.
